Call for Papers

Watermark

Watermark, an annual scholarly journal published by graduate students in the Department of English at California State University, Long Beach, is now seeking papers for the inaugural issue. Watermark is dedicated to publishing original critical and theoretical papers concerned with literature of all genres and periods, as well as papers representing current issues in the fields of rhetoric and composition. As this journal is intended to provide a forum for emerging voices, only student work will be considered.

Possible essay topics may include, but are not limited to:
- Gender, cultural, racial, and economic borders and transitions
- Digital rhetoric in the media age
- Reconsidering regional and/or sentimental literature
- The construction of minimalism
- (Re)configuring the colonial experience
- Dissident ideas and official voices
- Issues of identity, discipline, and excess
- The new ethnicity of pastiche

The deadline for submissions is January 1, 2007. All submissions should include a cover letter that includes your name, phone number, email address, and the title of your essay or book review. All submissions should be approximately 12-15 pages and must be typed in MLA format with a standard 12 pt font. Please do not include your name on the essay itself as it will be reviewed by a blind peer-review panel. Submissions will not be returned.

Mail or hand-deliver submissions to the Watermark mailbox:
